Principal, Dr. D. Y. Patil Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences and Research, Pimpri, Pune.(M.S.) India.

Dear APTI Members,

It gives me immense pleasure to write the editorial message of the APTI Bulletin. My intent here is to highlight the role of teachers in evolving the pharmaceutical education scenario based on an innovative and progressive ethos to meet the requirements of the 21st century.

The pharmaceutical world continues to evolve and changes with the times to meet the requirements of global demands. It has a tremendous impact on the pharmaceutical education sphere, leading to evolving trends in the field. Teachers must understand these trends and create a complete ecosystem that will foster a culture of innovation across all educational institutions.

In present scenario, the teacher need to impart the holistic mentoring and guardianship that take care of academics, career opportunities, professional development, and personal growth, propelling the overall development of the students. Teachers can play an important role by empowering students with social, economic, legal, and human values through personalized mentoring programs.

The teachers also need to focus on the image of pharmacists as competent healthcare professionals, sensitize the community, government, and others on vital professional issues, and support pharmaceutical education and sciences in all aspects.

The Association of Pharmaceutical Teachers of India (APTI) and educational institutions need to play a crucial role at every step to shape the innovation ecosystem in pharmacy educational institutes. Through such initiatives, both teachers and students will be benefited by acquiring a diverse skill set encompassing entrepreneurship, leadership, and problem-solving adaptability. APTI can actively promote supportive policies and encourage collaboration between academia and industry startups.

I am sure, together we all will strive hard to take the profession to the newer heights. I congratulate the team APTI for their efforts in bringing the pharmacy teachers on one platform and sensitizing them for the better tomorrow.

With Warm Regards and Best Wishes.
